Agenda 47 | Addressing the Rise of Chronic Childhood Illnesses (6/6/23)

"Every year, we spend hundreds of billions of dollars to treat these chronic problems rather than looking at what is causing them in the first place. Our public health establishment is too close to Big Pharma (they make a lot of money), Big Pharma, big corporations, and other special interests. Public Health does not want to ask the tough questions about what is happening to our children's health."

- It is time to ask: What is going on? Is it the food they eat? The environment we live in? The over-prescription of certain medications? Is it the toxins and chemicals are present in our homes?
- If Big Pharma defrauds American patients and taxpayers or puts profits above people, they must be investigated and held accountable.
- President Trump will establish a special Presidential Commission of independent minds; people not bought and paid for by Big Pharm. The Commission will be charged with investigating what is causing the decades-long increase in chronic illnesses.
- The Commission will be tasked with publishing recommendations for how every American child can have a safe and healthy childhood.

This is a conversation that American families deserve. American families must have this conversation, and they must have a leader — a President — who can do something about this problem.
